ART SESSION

RADIONICA 1

'Art Session' (art sešn) je sintagma koju je Era Milivojević uveo radi imenovanja procesa "stvaranja i ispoljavanja unutar različitih medija i različitih vidova slika u vremenu i prostoru". Osnova tog procesa je sažimanje mnoštva impulsa koje produkuje konceptualno polazište rada, to jest ideja, zatim svest, mašta, intuicija i akumulirano znanje, te misao i reč, kao i komunikacija i informacija. Nju nadograđuju filtriranje tog kondenzovanog materijala kroz neposredno iskustvo konteksta u kome se se sešn odigrava i njihova artikulacija u medijumu koji se u datom konkretnom slučaju pokaže kao najprimereniji ispoljavanju celokupnog spleta komponenata koji ulaze u strukturu rada. U selu Sopotnica kraj Prijepolja, u periodu od 15. do 23. avgusta 2001, održana je i prva u nizu Remontovih umetničkih radionica koje imaju za cilj ispitivanje art sešna kao specifičnog edukativnog i produktionog modela u oblasti vizuelnih umetnosti. Učesnici radionice su bili mladi umetnici iz regionala skloni eksperimentu u procesu rada, njeno umetničko vođstvo povereno je Eri Milivojeviću i Jusufu Hadžifejzoviću, a organizacija je sprovedena kroz partnerstvo Remonta iz Beograda i Kulturnog kluba 21 iz Prijepolja.

Inicijativa za formiranje radionice u Sopotnici nastala je tokom razgovora nakon prezentacije Umetničke Asocijacije Remont u Domu Revolucije u Prijepolju, maja 2001 godine, kao neki neposredan odgovor na molbe i zahteve lokalnih kulturnih aktivista u Priljepolju usmerenih ka komunikaciji na planu partnerskih projekata. Imala je za ciljeve pružanje netipičnih kulturnih sadržaja lokalnoj sredini, uključivanje potencijalnih mladih umetnika i aktivista iz Prijepolja u mrežu koja bi tom prilikom nastajala kroz povezivanje mladih umetnika iz okolnih kulturnih centara (Cetinje, Sarajevo, Beograd, Novi Sad, Skopje), i edukovanje lokalnih NVO u organizaciji i menadžmentu od strane Remonta kroz zajednički rad, a time i njihovo postepeno osposobljavanje za samostalne aktivnosti. Projekat proizašao iz te inicijative računao je na lokalne specifičnosti date kulturne i socijalne mikroklimе, predlažući svojevrsni ogledni događaj koji bi bio zasnovan na njihovom preispitivanju kroz dela nastala tokom umetničke radionice, ali ne na način pukog preslikavanja zatečenih scena i prizora, već ulazeći sa njima u kreativni dijalog svestan neprozirnosti medija kojom je posredovan.

Prvobitna ideja projekta radionice u Sopotnici formulisana je kao 'radionica za performans', koja bi tematizovala performativni aspekt umetničkog dela kao emancipovanog od statusa ekskluzivne robe ili nosioca vrednosti lokalnih i univerzalnih kulturnih tradicija. 'Performans' je pritom posmatran ne kao sada već uveliko klasična umetnička disciplina, kod nas malo manje prisutna od drugih klasičnih umetničkih disciplina poput slikarstva, skulpture ili grafike, nego kao način uključivanja sopstvenog tela, biografije, osećaja pripadnosti i ličnih načina reagovanja na specifične kontekste u proces stvaranja rada, koji time napušta sigurno tle znanja, veština i dobrog ukusa, ulazeći u domen eksperimenta sa sopstvenim idejama, mislima, fantazijama, maštom i intuicijama, i pritom otvorenog komunikaciji sa različitim uslovnostima okruženja u kome nastaje. Izbor Ere Milivojevića i Jusufa Hadžifejzovića za umetnike koji bi vodili tu radionicu bio je rukovođen upravo njihovim pristupom mediju performansa, koji je visoko konceptualizovan i istovremeno otvoren za različite slučajeve incidenata na liniji odnosa umetničkog dela i horizonta realnosti koji oivičava bihevioralni svet njegovog stvaraoca, kao i spleta okolnosti koji uslovljavaju njegovu interpretaciju. Pri procesu pripreme radionice, Era Milivojević je predložio promenu njenog naziva, ka više idiomatskom i njegovom sopstvenom pristupu specifičnjem, te kao mogući novi naziv naveo sintagmu 'art sešn', koja u svom objašnjenju otvara i mogućnosti višemedijskog izražavanja za umetnike koji bi u njoj učestvovali, i jače naglašava interaktivni karakter i kompleksnost samog procesa. Pomeranje od 'performansa' ka 'art sešnu' vidno je uticalo na profilisanje radova koji su bili kranji proizvodi radionice, a koji su pored medija performansa uključivali i fotografije, video, kao i muzički sešn.

Rad na 'Art Session' radionici započeo je kolektivnim akcijama izvođenim po idejama Ere Milivojevića. Na vodopadima reke Sopotnice, iznad istoimenog sela, rađen je foto sešn, koji je smerala ka obrazovanju svojevrsne replike čuvene scene 'osvita čovečanstva' iz Kjubrikove 'Odiseje u svemiru 2001'. Nakon toga, na jednoj od poljana nadomak Doma planinara, rađeno je, takođe u vidu foto sešna, ispitivanje osnovnih propratnih vizuelnih fenomena tipične fudbalske utakmice, i to putem njihovog ponavljanja i i beleženja u mediju fotografije i video zapisa, a zatim i akcija lova na skakavce, sa pomnim beleženjem specifičnih pokreta, telesnih položaja i situacija koji su pri njoj nastajali. Zapisi akcija koje su sledile svakodnevno su kolektivno, često i uz prisustvo lokalne seoske populacije, posmatrani, prosuđivani i komentarisani, ponekad čak veoma žučno i angažovano, usmeravajući učesnike sve više ka preispitivanju i jasnom profilisanju njihovog ličnog položaja i učešća u radionici, što je u krajnjoj instanci rezultovalo dugačkim nizom jasno određenih radova. U toku same radionice održala se već i prva prezentacija dokumentarnih foto radova učesnika u Omladinskom klubu Demokratske stranke u Prijepolju, dok je oficijelni završni događaj imao za matični prostor Narodni muzej u Prijepolju, i to na samom kraju radionice, 22 avgusta 2001. .

Završni događaj 'Art Session' radionice odigrao se na četiri glavna punkta u gradu, kao i više sporednih. U Narodnom muzeju je postavljena izložba foto radova, vršena projekcija tada još nemontiranih video radova, odigrao se video performans Jasmina Durakovića, te zatim performans sa instaliranim ambijentom Jusufa Hadžifejzovića, i na kraju muzički džem sešn u kome je učestvovalo i do desetak ljudi. Na trotoaru, koristeći usto i celu površinu pločnika neposredno ispred ulaza u Narodni muzej, zajednički performans su izveli Vesna Duničić i Petar Miroslavljević. Irena Paskali i Irena Missoni su za svoje akcije koristile javne prostore trgovinskih objekata ostvarujući, upotreboti simulakruma reklamne kampanje (Paskali) odnosno zamenom sadržaja izloga (Missoni), neposrednu komunikaciju sa onim segmentom lokalnog stanovištva koje nije nužno na bilo koji način vezano za svet umetnosti, remeteći njihove uobičajene navike posmatranja i identifikovanja stvari u njihovom neposrednom okružju. Na zidu obližnje škole Era Milivojević je izvršio transpoziciju motiva mileševskog Belog Andela u mozaički crtež koji odaje vizuelni utisak negde između goblena i pikselisane slike nastale preteranim uvećanjem kompjuterske slike male rezolucije, dok je video Lekunda Brunilde, snimljen na vodopadima Sopotnice, prikazan na ciradi kamiona parkiranog ispred niza kafića na glavnoj 'štafti' u Prijepolju, u udarnom terminu za izlaska.

U samom procesu rada na radionici veoma je bila važna činjenica da, iako je postojala veoma jasna podela na umetnike koji su je vodili i one koji su u njoj učestvovali, ona nije bila svođena, kako se to uobičajeno dešava, po liniji podele na one koji zadaju zadatke na osnovu svog mandata za koji ih je legitimisala neka prethodna umetnička praksa, i onih koji ih samo izvršavaju, ne bi li se i sami legitimisali kao umetnici. Nasuprot tome, radilo se o kreativnom procesu u kome su paralelno nastajali radovi i predavača i učesnika, koji su realizovani i na izložbu postavljeni zajedno, bez hijerarhijalizacije, i uz maksimalno podsticanje individualnog izraza kod učesnika. Znatan segment radova je bio rezultat saradnje dva ili više umetnika, dok je muzički sešn uključio i ljude izvan neposrednog kruga formalnih učesnika, što je takođe pokazalo i inkluzivnu prirodu načina rada na radionici, te je nakon radionice krug još proširen ka mreži koja će biti mesto porekla daljih radionica.

Stevan Vuković

Art Session" is a syntagm introduced by Era Milivojevic when naming the process of "creation and expression through various media and various kinds of pictures in time and space". The basic principle of this process is to sum up numerous impulses which stem from departure-points of any conceptual work, that is from an idea, then from consciousness, imagination, intuition and accumulated knowledge, as well as from thoughts, words, communication and information. This is supplemented by the filtration of such a condensed material through the immediate experience of the context in which an art session takes place. They are then articulated through a medium which, in a given context, seems to be the most appropriate means of expressing the whole set of components which determine the structure of work. In the village of Sopotnica, near by Prijepolje, the first of many Remont workshops was held between 15th and 23rd August 2001. Its aim was to examine art session as a specific educational and productive model in the field of visual arts. The workshop participants were young artists from the region, who showed a tendency to experiment within the process of working. Era Milivojevic and Jusuf Hadzifejzovic were entrusted with the co-ordination of the workshop, whilst the organisation of the workshop was maintained through partnership between Remont from Belgrade and Cultural Club 21 from Prijepolje.

The initiative for creating the workshop in Sopotnica came into existence during a discussion that took place after the Remont Art Association presented itself in the House of Culture in Prijepolje, in May 2001. This initiative came as a direct answer to the pleas and requests of local cultural activists from Prijepolje, interested in communicating through partnership projects. Its aim was to offer untypical cultural events to local public, to involve potential young artists and activists from Prijepolje in a wider network which would be created by connecting young artists from the neighbouring cultural centres (Cetinje, Sarajevo, Belgrade, Novi Sad, Skopje), and to have Remont working together with local NGO-s and educating them in terms of organisation and management, thus gradually enabling them to start independent activities. The project resulting from this initiative took into consideration local specificities of the given culture and social microclimate, at the same time proposing to set up an uniquely experimental event which would be based on the questioning of the given culture and society by having the workshop participants creating works which would not merely copy the given scenes and landscapes, but would engage with them into a creative dialogue where the non-transparency of the mediating media becomes transparent.

The original idea for the project in Sopotnica was formulated as a "performance workshop", and was meant to themeatize the performative aspect of the artwork that is being emancipated from the status of exclusive goods or value-carriers in the context of local and universal cultural traditions. "Performance" is here seen not as it is the case nowadays, but as a classical art discipline, although in this country it is less present than other disciplines of classical art, such as painting, sculpture or graphics. Performance is then seen through the lens of getting one's own body, biography, emotions, the feeling of belonging as well as personal reactions to specific contexts all involved in the process of creating an art-work, thus leaving the secure ground of knowledge, skills and good taste, and entering into the domain of experimenting with one's own ideas, thoughts, fantasies, imagination and intuition, and at the same time openly communicating with different conditions of the environment in which it is being created. The selection of Era Milivojevic and Jusuf Hadzifejzovic as the co-ordinators of the workshop was governed by their approach to performance; The approach which is highly conceptualised but also open to various coincidental events that take place on the line connecting the art-work and the horizons of reality which border the behavioural world of its creator, as well as a set of circumstances that determine its interpretation. Era Milivojevic suggested that the title of the workshop should be changed and made more idiomatic or more appropriate to the approach specific to performance, and he cited as a possible new title the syntagma "art session", which, through its explanation opens up possibilities of multimedia expressions for the artists which would be involved in it, and which places a stronger emphasis on the interactive character and complexity of that very process. The shifting of "performance" toward "art session", had a visible influence on the proliferation of works with which the workshop production ended, and which, apart from media performances, included photography, video and music sessions.

The work on the "art session" began with collective actions conceived of by Era Milivojevic. A photo session which was aiming toward the forming of the unique replica of the famous scene - "dawn of humankind" from Kubrick's "Space Odyssey 2001" was done at the waterfalls of the river Sopotnica, above the village of the same name. After this, at the field near by the mountaineering club, participants worked, in the form of another photo session, on examining basic visual phenomena accompanying a typical football game in the context of their repetition, and recording it in the medium of photography and video. Then there was an action of hunting for grasshoppers, accompanied by the careful recording of specific movements, body positions and situations which were created during the action. The recording of the following actions, often watched by the local village population, was collectively observed, judged and commented on, occasionally even in a very loud and engaging way, thus directing the participants toward examining and profiling of their own personal positions and involvement in the workshop, which in the end created a string of clearly formulated works. During the workshop, the first presentation of the participants' documentary photo works was held in the Youth Club of the Democratic Party, whilst the final event which officially marked the end of the workshop on 22nd August 2001, was hosted by the People's Museum in Prijepolje.

The final event of the "Art Session" workshop took place at four main town-points, as well as at some less prominent places. An exhibition of photo works was set up in the People's Museum, which also hosted the projection of previously uninstalled video works, a video performance by Jasmin Durakovic, a performance with an ambient installed by Jusuf Hadzifejzovic, and finally a music jam session performed by up to ten people. Vesna Dunimagloska and Petar Miroslavljevic set up a joined performance on the pavement and ground in front of the entrance to the People's Museum. In course of their activities, Irena Paskali and Irena Missoni used the public spaces of trade buildings, and through the simulacrum of advertising campaigns (Paskali), and after changing the content of the shop-window (Missoni), established direct communication with the segment of the local population which was not in any case related to the world of art, thus managing to upset their habitual ways of observing and identifying things from within their immediate environment. On the wall of a near by school, Era Milivojevic transposed the image of White Angel from Milesevo into a mosaic-like drawing which gave a visual impression that it was a mix of a needle-point work and pixellated picture created by enlargement of a computer picture of low resolution. Finally, Lekunda Brunila's video, made at the waterfalls in Sopotnica, was shown in the evening on the tarpaulin of a truck parked in front of a line of popular bars situated on theuzziest street of Prijepolje.

An important factor which was present throughout the process of working in the workshop, was that although there was a division on those who co-ordinated and those who performed in the workshop, this dividing line was not used in a usual way to distinguish those who give tasks on the basis of having been mandated by some previous artistic practices, from those who merely perform them in an attempt to affirm themselves as artists. On contrary, it was a creative process where works, simultaneously created by both the participants and teachers, were jointly realised and exhibited, without hierarchization, and with the maximum stimulation of the participants' individual expressions. An important segment of works resulted from the co-operation of two or more participants, which also showed the inclusive nature of the work in the workshop, so that after the workshop ended, the circle widened to become a net consisting of places where future workshops will take place.
