Last weekend, December 22 in Skopje, representatives of three partner organizations from Macedonia, Croatia and The Netherlands, gathered for a kick-off meeting marking the beginning of the new collaborative project entitled Collective Domain of Cultural Memory (CDCM). The anchor of the project will be the ethics of cultural heritage in Macedonia, Croatia and The Netherlands. Adjoined in CDCM the local experiences, the artistic approaches and innovative methods like heritage-activism, can become the starting point of an open debate on the collective domain of cultural memory in Europe.

The project partners are Slobodne veze/ Loose Associations from Zagreb, Press to Exit Project Space from Skopje and Sun, Stars association + The Dusty Writing group platform from Amsterdam. The project is conceived in several stages and project activities will include symposiums, a conference, guided tours, artist in residence programs, artistic production etc.
